C. L. Lewis' Omnibus Line still continues as popular as ever, and is sure to be punctual to the time, and always accommodating.

C. Messrs. E. Nagle & Co. announce themselves as candidates, not for the suffrage, but for the patronage of the public. Their stock of goods is large and well selected, and will not fail to please.

The Book trade has become one of immense extent, and a statement of the aggregate amount of Books sold in the course of a year would startle us. A glance in at the new establishment of Messrs. Thompson & Patterson in Wheeling, will enable one to form some idea of the Book trade in this region. The Wheeling Gazette says theirs is "one of the finest stores in the West."

A. C. Martin & Co. Druggists.

I would beg leave to call the attention of my old friends and customers to the card of the above firm, in which I have an interest. Mr. Martin has been with me for some years, and is in every respect capable of discharging the duties of a druggist. This purchase will be made by myself, of the most responsible houses in the Eastern cities, and all goods sold by the firm will be warranted as represented. All the popular Patent Medicines of the day will be sold by Martin & Co. The business will be conducted at my old stand.

I. H. PATTERSON.

St. Clairsville, April 12th.

We have been acquainted with Mr. Martin for so many years, and consider him in every way qualified for the control of his business. His stock of Drugs & Hardware is of the best quality, and the latest publications may always be obtained at his establishment.

The next term of the Court of Common Pleas for this County will commence on Tuesday the first day of May next.

Linden Hall Seminary is pleasantly situated in the village of West Alexander, Pa., in a healthy and pleasant region, and particular care is taken, not only with the mental, but the moral training of pupils entrusted to their care. The Institution, though in its infancy, has thus far been favored with a reasonable share of patronage, and no doubt merits more.
